

IXEurope Launches New Swiss Data Centre

24 Aug 2006: IXEurope plc, a UK data centre services company, has launched an additional data centre in Zurich to accommodate strong growth from the internet and enterprise markets and to provide expansion for its TIX internet exchange, Switzerland's largest hub for ISP traffic.

The new site will become IXEurope's fourth facility in Switzerland and 13th across Europe.

Guy Willner, Chief Executive Officer of IXEurope said "We have a great position in the Swiss market both in Geneva and Zurich and are pleased to be building on this. Switzerland has the highest IT spend per capita in the world and was ranked fourth overall in terms of e-Readiness by the Economist in 2005. This latest growth step allows us to extend our successful TIX internet exchange which already connects over 60 ISPs into the Swiss market."

IXEurope is one of Europe's fastest-growing providers of data centre services. Its principal activities include primary data centre services, connectivity services and business continuity solutions. IXEurope owns and operates the largest Internet exchange in Switzerland, the TIX, with some 50 members connected.
